Question

What are the "contacts" I can add to my device?

Answer

Contacts are number entries which can be accessed and dialed via the phone display screen. This tab gives access to the contacts that can be added individually to the device. They can be found in the directory of the phone once they have been added.

A screenshot of a web-based device settings interface for MAXvoice. The page title is 'Device Settings'. The 'Contacts' tab is active, showing a table of entries. The table has columns for First Name, Last Name, Number, Ring Type, and Action. There is a search bar at the top right and a 'Show' dropdown set to 10 entries. The table shows one entry: 'kathy' with a number '1019' and a ring type 'TRIPLET'. The 'Action' column contains edit and delete icons. At the bottom, it says 'Showing 1 to 1 of 1 entries' and has 'Previous', '1', and 'Next' buttons.

Add Contact

Adding a contact requires the first name, last name, phone number or extension, and the ring type for the contact. Press the to enter in this contacts information.

First Name

First name of the contact.

Last Name

Last name of the contact.

Number

The 4-digit extension or 10-digit number of the contact.

Ring Type

The ringtone selected for inbound calls from the contact number.

Action

You can edit and delete the contact line. Pressing will take you to the same page as add contact, where you can edit the existing information. Pressing will delete the contact from the list.

External numbers and 4-digit extensions added via this tab are then listed in the phone's contact list.

When selected via the phone display, the number is automatically dialed.
